Mala Singh

Mala Singh is renowned for her commitment to sustainable development. A green evangelist with an M.Phil in environmental sciences from IIT Roorkee, she is single-handedly responsible for transforming, till now, over 25 million sq ft of building footprint into a more meaningful and environmentally sound urban space.

A green entrepreneur, Mala Singh's work has impacted across levels, from small buildings to large townships. Her architectural approach is characterized by a singular focus on long term and holistic sustainable development, including efforts like sustainability reporting, carbon disclosure projects and legal advocacy for environmental regulations. Perhaps this is what makes her a green architect, a visionary and an activist, all rolled into one.

Her role in sustainability drive...

Mala Singh is executive committee member of Indian Green Building Council and also committee member of various individual technical committees like Green Homes, Green Townships, Green Landscape, Green Infrastructure etc, where her role has already proven its credentials in the published standards.

She is the Head Convener - Green Governance (Govt.), Mumbai chapter of IGBC. She has also served as the Steering Committee member of International Green Congress 2011 of CII & IGBC.

As board advisor with various Developers and Infrastructure Companies, her advisory services helped to develop the first green PORT of India.

A core committee member for Green code committee of Government of Maharashtra, she is also Head Convener for Indian Green Building Council (CII) to co-ordinate with government of Maharashtra (M.C.G.M., MMRDA, SRA, MHADA, MPCB etc.)

Truly a role model...

A well-known spokesperson for sustainable development, Mala Singh is known for her ability to engage people. She aggressively generates interest about going green, its relevance and urgency, spreading the message through her speeches, seminars and consultations.

She has received the following awards and honors:

Best Green Entrepreneur 2013, under the category of Global Green Awards organized by World CSR Congress on 18th February 2013 on the occasion of World CSR Day.

Received special appreciation for "Leading Green Movement in India" from Chairman of World Green Building Council (WGBC), US Green Building Council (USGBC) and Chairman, IGBC.

Real Estate Award of CREDAI CRISIL CNBC TV at Dubai for Best Overall System Management.

Felicitated as a "Green Ambassador" (Paryavaran Rajdoot) by Hon. Minister Mr. Sachin Ahir.

New Paryavaran Bhavan - Her landmark green initiative

The new Paryavaran Bhavan is an inspirational green building. Its Design has traditional values like Courtyard architecture, enhanced day lighting & ventilation through efficient glazing / wall window ratio.

Rainwater harvesting and waste water treatment & reuse as well as efficient landscaping are a part of this building. It is a 100% Solar powered building connected to grid under Solar policy & gets 9.47 Rs per unit for supply. It has an Online Solar track system & PPP agreement between govt. & operator.

The most attractive aspect is that Green Education features all around the building. Inside the building, there is a green library & Green Handbook designed in simple language for occupants & visitors.

This building has become a bench mark inspiration for various other Government departments.
